

Corruption

A government department contracted a subject to deliver food to various primary schools in Gauteng. The subject disappeared after being paid more than R200 000. The FIC's thorough profiling of the subject and his business entities enabled the South African Police Service to trace and arrest the subject. The case is pending in court.

